

Reaves Utilities and Energy Infrastructure Fund

Firm Overview

Reaves Asset Management was founded in 1961, and specializes in utility, energy, and telecommunications related sector research. It is owned by its highly experienced team of industry professionals, and is focused solely on providing investors with high quality risk adjusted returns.

Fund Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to generate capital appreciation and dividend income by investing in the power, energy and telecom infrastructure and basic industry market sectors.

Management

The Fund is managed by a team of investment professionals with an average of 22 years investment industry experience.

Investment Strategy

We primarily invest in securities of domestic and foreign public utility, energy, and telecom sector companies. We build conservative, dividend-generating portfolios from the bottom up. Our research process is rigorous, independent, and supported by an experienced analytical team. We conduct frequent investment reviews to assess conviction and risk characteristics, and employ a disciplined sell process.

Performance data represents past performance which is no guarantee of future results. Investment return and principal value will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than the original cost. Investment performance may reflect voluntary fee waivers in effect. In the absence of such fee waivers, total return would be reduced. Mutual fund performance changes over time and current performance may be lower or higher than what is stated. Comparison of Change in Value of $10,000 Investment in RSRFX - Institutional Shares vs. S&P 500 ($MM)

Assumes investment is made on the inception date of RSRFX and income and capital gains are reinvested.

Standard Deviation is a measurement of variability that indicates how much dispersion there is from the average.

Sharpe Ratio is the measure of excess return (or risk premium) per unit of risk in an investment.

Alpha is the risk adjusted measure of the active return on an investment. It is the return in excess of the compensation for the risk borne.

Beta is a measure of the risk in relation to the market or benchmark.

R-Squared is a statistical measure that represents the percentage of a fund or security's movements that can be explained by movements in a benchmark or index.

Tracking error is a measure of how closely a portfolio's return follows the index to which it is benchmarked.

Information Ratio is the ratio of a portfolio's return above the benchmark returns to the volatility of those returns.

Upside Capture is a statistical measure used to evaluate how well or poorly a manager performs relative to an index during periods when the index has risen.

Downside Capture is a statistical measure used to evaluate how well or poorly a manager performs relative to an index during periods when the index has dropped.

Total returns assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions. Performance shown is before tax. Investment performance includes voluntary fee waivers. In the absence of fee waivers, performance would be reduced. Fee waivers and reductions may be discontinued at any time.

To determine if this Fund is an appropriate investment for you, carefully consider the Fund's investment objectives, risk factors, charges, and expenses before investing. This and other information can be found in the Fund's prospectus, which may be obtained by calling 1.866.342.7058, or by visiting www.reavesassetmanagement.com. Please read the prospectus carefully before investing.

Mutual fund investing involves risk, including possible loss of principal. In addition to the normal risks associated with investing, narrowly focused investments typically exhibit higher volatility. There can be no assurance that the Fund will achieve its stated objective.

The Reaves Select Research Fund is distributed by SEI Investments Distribution Co., which is not affiliated with Reaves Asset Management. SEI Investments Distribution Co., 1 Freedom Valley Drive, Oaks, PA, 19456.

The S&P 500 Index is an unmanaged index containing common stocks of 500 industrial, transportation, utility and financial companies, regarded as generally representative of the U.S. stock market. The return of the total return index reflects the reinvestment of income dividends and capital gain distributions, but does not reflect fees, brokerage commissions, or other expenses of investing. The Fund includes a significant percentage of assets that are also found in the S&P 500 Index. However, the Fund is far less diversified, resulting in higher sector concentrations than found in the broad-based S&P 500 Index.

The S&P Global Infrastructure Index is designed to track 75 companies from around the world chosen to represent the listed infrastructure industry while maintaining liquidity and tradability. To create diversified exposure, the index includes three distinct infrastructure clusters: energy, transportation, and utilities. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.
